

Electric Eddy and the Un-Watched Light

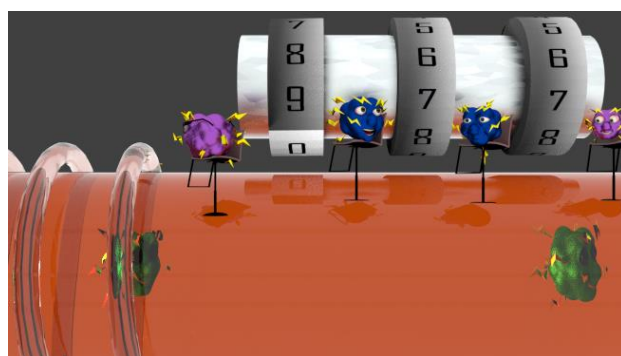

Teaches children the importance of turning lights off when they're not being used.

Electrons express their views about being wasted when there are so many great opportunities for them.

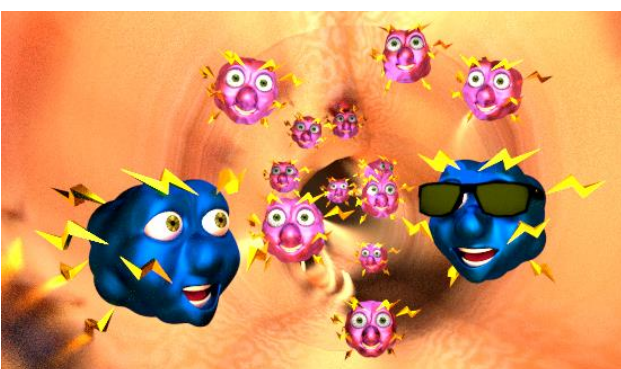

Electric Eddy has a Narrow Escape

Eddy and Delta have a narrow escape from certain discharge as Grandma saves the day. This cartoon highlights the amount energy required to boil a kettle and encourages people to only boil as much water as they need.

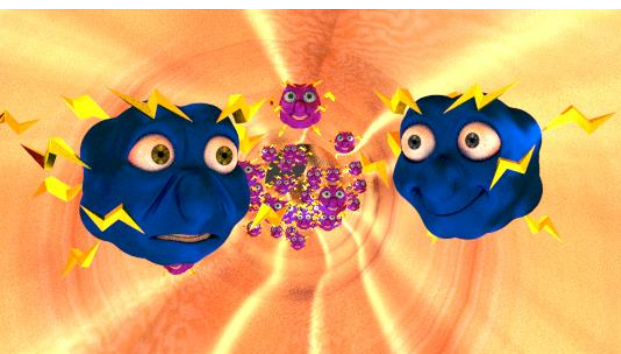

Electric Eddy Makes Some New Friends

No need for Eddy to worry about all the work required to power the new electrical equipment that's being installed. It turns out to be a new solar panel that generate lots of new green friends.

Electric Eddy and the Holiday Standby Crisis

Understand the importance of NOT leaving equipment on standby. Eddy and Delta are expecting a peaceful break when the humans go on holiday. Unfortunately the father has left a lot of electrical equipment on. Will someone save the day and let them enjoy a holiday or will they be discharged.

Electric Eddy and the Return of the Prodigal Son

Eddy and Delta discover how energy inefficient a young student can be, but what would it take to make them environmentally aware.